LOST CHILD FOUND NEAR REWTERS BRIDGE

Last Monday, Mr. D. Gilbert, an inhabitant of Floreal, reported to the police that his child was missing. They had searched for him everywhere – at their neighbors’ and relatives’ place – but the child was nowhere to be found. All the family members were anxious, for they feared that their child was perhaps lost.

The child, being five years old, is in standard I. He attends Nightingale Primary School. His name is Fred Gilbert; he is of fair complexion and has brown, curly hair. On the day he was lost, he was wearing school uniform. He ought to be at home by three o’clock but he was not seen in the school bus on that day. In fact, the boy had left the school compound unnoticed during the short break and had walked the whole way from his school to Rewters Bridge, found some three miles away from his school.

Fred passed three whole days in the vicinity of the bridge, until he finally caught the attention of a stranger who was passing by. The latter was rather surprised to find the child loitering all alone. Fortunately, the man found the child’s address on his copybook and redirected him home safely. However, he walked away without revealing his identity.

The child’s parents are making a humble request to the stranger to contact them by telephone on the following number: 2456789. In fact, they will be much pleased to meet the person who rescued their child.
